

Year 3/4 Art: Torn Paper Landscapes

Key vocabulary

the foreground is the part of an artwork that is closest to the viewer the middle ground is the area between the foreground and background. It's the central part of an image, and often contains the main subject the background is the part of an artwork that is furthest away from the viewer a landscape is a type of artwork that depicts the natural world, such as mountains, rivers, forests, and trees perspective is a technique used by artists to create the illusion of 3D space on a flat, 2D surface

Focus artwork / artist

Garrowby Hill - David Hockney