The Boy Who Grew Phoenix

Now the Fire fruit was blazing and sparkly. It was like the sun toasting up the drawer. But then little sparks started to come out of the drawer. But these sparks were familiar...

Then, I dropped my switch, took my fire blanket and crept to the drawer. It was igniting like a bonfire. For some reason, it was wriggling, then bulging and then...
BANG!

A spray of sparks and fiery flesh spread across the drawer like an explosion.

That's when the sparks woke me up and my eyes didn't believe it. It was an real phoenix. 2.10 Its majestic wings uncurled with shades of orange, yellow and gold. Then it flew onto my wardrobe, it was perched like a parrot on a coconut tree. I got my stool and reached up.

for the Phoenix. He seemed to like places with lots of clean air.

Dark Places.

Now all I had to do is find out what he does and eats. With a few test here are the results: Eats mango, a small portion of smoked meat (from my dinner) and bread. What he does: burnt trees (it looks like my aunt's cooking), snoring very loud and puts things on fire. Well, that took forever finally I can play on my shield!
